

Arriving at Fuji City, visitors can discover more than spectacular views of Mount Fuji. Explore Taganoura and learn about their shirasu fishing heritage and other local industries. Further afield, why not visit Kanbara to the west and discover some historical gems along the Old Tōkaidō Road? Fuji City provides some of the best views of Mount Fuji in Japan too – visit the tea fields at Obuchi Sasaba for one of the most famous vantage points.

TAGONOURA PORT / FISHERIES COOPERATIVE RESTAURANT

PORT

1

Taganoura Port is well-known in Fuji city for its shirasu, or fresh young whitebait/sardines. They are caught from Suruga Bay off the coast of Shizuoka, which is the leading source of shirasu for the whole of Japan. At the Fisheries Cooperative Restaurant at Taganoura Port, you can enjoy eating shirasu daily (10:30-13:30) between April and November.

OBUCHI SASABA

TEA FARM

Obuchi Sasaba,
Fuji City

4

This tea farm to the north of Fuji City is considered a great location from which to take photographs – the rolling tea fields and snow-capped peak of Mount Fuji make for a great combination and spectacular views when the weather is clear.

RYUŌ SHRINE

SHRINE

5

Facing the Suruga bay sits Ryu Shrine. Although the correct name is Ryu Shrine, it is usually called Ryu Shrine since eight dragon kings are enshrined here. Due to their association with the sea, they are respected by local fishermen as a symbol of safety and luck.

BISHAMONTEN MYŌHŌJI

TEMPLE

6

Built to worship the Buddhist deity, Bishamonten, the god of warfare, the Bishamonten Myōhōji Temple is located to the east of Yoshiwara. The Bishamonten Festival is held from the 7th-9th of the old Lunar New Year calendar, where one of the biggest daruma markets can be witnessed in Japan.

TŌKAI DŌ AND HIGASHI KIDO

ROUTE

7

Kanbara-juku was the fifteenth of 53 stations along the Tōkaidō, one of the main Edo period routes connecting Kyoto and Tokyo. Therefore, there is a lot of history on display in the Kanbara area, including the original waypoint marking the Higashi Kido, or Eastern Wooden Gate.

OLD IGARASHI DENTAL CLINIC

The former Igarashi Dental Clinic is a beautiful, historic structure which, along with its garden, is open to the public as a museum for free to all visitors. Sections of the home were originally built in the Meiji era. In 1914, the dentist Igarashi reformed the original building into his dental clinic, hence the Western exterior yet Japanese interior. It is a registered cultural property of Japan.
